[1] Dear Sir -

Will you permit me to introduce to you my friend M^r Cadell a very respectable character of my own country who is making the tour of Germany & could not think of passing through Bonn without being presented to you - I shall hope to hear on M^r Cadells return of your being well - or if any friend of yours should be bound for London I should be much gratified by a note of your remembrance & by your putting it in my power to show attention to a stranger introduced by you -

I continue to reside in London in the Editorship of the N. M. Magazine.

I have taken a House in a pleasant part of the town & [2] I find myself altogether as comfortable as the common lot of Humanity permits - Only that I am tormented by the great scarcity of competent contributors to my work & the mere arrangement of the papers for every month does not allow me leisure as I could wish to throw my own humble efforts into the scale -

It would be more becoming in me however to enquire what original works the world is to be yet favoured with from yourself than to talk of my own concerns - In hopes of hearing soon on the former subject

I remain

My dear Sir

Your very obliged & faithful

Serv^t

Tho^s Campbell
